2. Other

- C. Clary added that the CASNR discussion with SSB has lead to a future course action form that will make a change to the intro Agricultural Economics course to add the mutually exclusive attribute.
- C. Ormsbee reminded Instruction Council that I-Clicker provided a pilot of their system in many of the OSU orientation classes earlier this fall. I-Clicker is an automated student response system that will track students attending class - with a question and when answered the system automatically takes attendance. The new goal is to target additional spring classes specifically with large enrollment. C. Ormsbee asked IC member to think about classes within their specific colleges that would prove effective. Faculty will need to be willing to deal with the setup of the system. C. Ormsbee will email a description of what will be required of the faculty to all IC members following the meeting. The raw data that is collected is given to Institutional Research and Information Management (IRIM) for retention predictions. This system has potential, but it is not without flaws. The technology will never be perfect. M. Mason informed IC members that several faculty within Spears School of Business (SSB) have moved to Top Hat for their automated student response system. C. Ormsbee explained that a committee, comprised of faculty, students and staff has been assembled to look at the different student response systems. Her concern is that Top Hat duplicates many features that Canvas offers and by utilizing Top Hat, we would basically be expecting students to buy two systems that perform the same functions.

- J. Mendez mentioned that we received a response from the State Regents and are expected to provide assessments on standalone certificates for the 5-year review. Annual assessments are not needed. Colleges who wish to prepare annual assessment for their certificates will proceed as usual. It would be helpful to develop guidelines for these certificate assessments. R. Chung recommended that a discussion in Assessment and Academic Improvement Council (AAIC) might be helpful with developing guidelines.

- J. Mendez announced that the Retention to Graduate Committee will be co-chaired by herself and Dr. Doug Hallenbeck. One of her goals within this committee is to address the group of students on academic probation and what OSU is doing to support these students while on probation. Careful attention needs to be given regarding additional barriers such as fees or courses, but at the same time OSU needs to provide them with the resources the students need to be successful. M. Wikle with First Year Success / University College mentioned the UNIV course that was previously provided, but advisors / faculty lost interest in promoting the course. J. Mendez clarified that if this is the avenue chosen, the students would be required to take the course. She further explained that her desire is for Academic Affairs to proactively address this population by helping to facilitate and be a resource for this group of students. There was further discussion that this is more of an individual plan for each student on probation.

- Registrar’s Office has recently reassigned duties within their office. Tuition appeals will now be sent to Academic Affairs office, and C. Thrasher will be overseeing the process.

Meeting was adjourned at 9:55 a.m.
